

FLAG RAISED AT GIRLS' SCHOOL

Gen. Read Unable to Attend; Musical Program Changed.

Because Gen. George W. Read, commander of the 15th cavalry division, is going to San Antonio, where one of his divisions is located, and could not be present, Maj. R. P. How, president of the El Paso School for Girls Thursday morning at 11:30. Gen. Read had been scheduled to make the presentation in behalf of Miss Corinne Wagner, the donor. Maj. How is judge advocate of the division and was designated by Gen. Read to make the presentation in his place.

Owing to new army regulations prohibiting the playing of army bands of the national anthem of any of the allies except on official occasions, when some representative of the nation is present, the playing of "The Marseillaise" and "God Save the King" had to be omitted from the program. The music was furnished by the 15th cavalry band from Fort Bliss.

Luncheon to Guests. After the ceremony of dedicating and raising the flag, the parents of the pupils of the school, those who participated in the program and a few invited guests were entertained at luncheon by Misses Ora Slater and Olga Tafel, the principals, and their staff of teachers.

Horace B. Stevens, vice president of the board of directors of the school, presided over the festivities attending the dedication.

The program opened with "The Stars and Stripes" by the band, which also played "To America" during the presentation of the flag.

Rev. Fuller Swift then blessed the flag, after which it was formally presented to the school by Maj. How.

The flag is looking from a staff erected on the broad lawn in front of the new school at the southwest entrance to Austin terrace.

The girls who acted as marshals for the students during the exercises were Katherine Dick, Lydia Happer, Mary Happer, Minnie Lauder, Betty Ormsbee, Alice Pruitt, Betty Sanford and Ruth Schwartz.

ENEMY ALIENS GET CARDS TO SHOW THEY'RE REGISTERED

Registration cards for the German enemy aliens were received at police headquarters Wednesday afternoon and Joe Haxinger and Mrs. Ida Case have been busy making them out and delivering them to the aliens who registered here a few days ago.

Each card is shaped like a book, with a heavy paper cover. There are four pages, which contain the name of the registrant, his address, a description of him, his photograph and impression of the nature of his left hand. The card is signed by the registrar and the date of registration is noted.

Each German enemy alien who has registered receives one of these cards, which he is supposed to carry with him at all times. It is the intention that proves he has complied with the law regarding registration. About 150 of the cards will be issued here.

DELEGATES TO FOREIGN TRADE CONVENTION INVITED

Leading El Paso firms have been asked to name delegates to the fifth annual foreign trade convention which will meet at the Gibson hotel, Cincinnati, Ohio, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 18, 19 and 20, according to an announcement by Otis C. Cole, president of the chamber of commerce.

Any manufacturers, bankers, transportation experts, merchants or business men who are interested in attending the convention are requested to send their names to Mr. Cole.

PORTUGAL DECIDES UPON A PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

Paris, France, Feb. 21.—The Portuguese cabinet has decided to hold an election for president of the republic of Portugal soon, a Havas dispatch from Lisbon says. Voting will be by direct suffrage.

President Machado of Portugal was killed after the successful revolution in Lisbon early last December. A cabinet headed by Dr. Sidonio Pass has been in control of the government.

Stock Buyers Urge Increase In Corn Crop

Meeting in Amarillo Asks Increase of 100 Percent in Panhandle.

Amarillo, Texas, Feb. 21.—The third annual buyers' and sellers' convention convened in Amarillo this week, the sessions opening Tuesday. The out of town attendance is large, several thousand cattlemen being in attendance. In Wednesday's session resolutions were adopted which recommended that this section increase its acreage in corn 100 percent during 1918. A committee will organize for such a campaign. B. R. Masterson is president and J. H. Avery secretary. Ex Gov. W. R. Stubbs, of Kansas, made a great speech Tuesday.

Kansas City is represented at the convention with the largest delegation of any one city. This delegation includes well known commission men, brokers, packers and prominent men in the stockraising industry.

M. M. Hendrick, of the Kansas City Stockyards company, one of the best informed cattlemen of the southwest, commenting on the cattle industry in general, said he believes there will be as many grass cattle in Kansas this year as in previous years, even though the price of grass and cattle is higher. Considering the present high prices of corn and cattle, as compared with previous years, the price of Kansas grass is by far cheaper.

"Trading at the present time seems to be limited, as feeders are dubious as to what the government will do in regard to fixing a minimum price," Mr. Hendrick said.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN TELLS WHY SHE KILLED LEGISLATOR

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 21.—Sensational testimony was brought out yesterday in the trial of Marie Edwards, charged with the murder of state senator Henry H. Lyon in this city last October.

Taking the stand, the woman said she had a love affair with Lyon and gave her earnings to Lyon. She said he promised to marry her, but added that he insisted upon her entering a Japanese lodging house because she could earn more money there. She said she refused. A break in their relationship followed, and she shot him. She said he urged her to use a habit-forming drug when her health became impaired.

208 LOST ON THE TUSCANIA IS OFFICIAL ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The first official estimate of losses by the torpedoing of the troop ship Tuscania was issued today through the committee on public information. It states that there were 2178 officers and men aboard; 1371 named and 807 unaccounted for. The unaccounted for are shown 126 known dead; 33 unknown dead and 721 missing, including the unaccounted for.

ARIZONAN IN LOS ANGELES KILLS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 21.—Don Van Dusen, formerly a hotel owner of Outman, Ariz., turned upon his 29-year-old wife in the shopping district today, fired five shots into her body and killed himself when cornered by a crowd of men after a chase of three blocks.

Mrs. Van Dusen died within a few minutes. Van Dusen, according to the police, was dependent upon separation from his wife.

Organize For Ft. Bliss and Ft. Sill Road

More Than 100 Highway Boosters Meet With Harvey at Plainview.

Plainview, Tex., Feb. 21.—More than 100 delegates from New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas met with Col. W. H. Harvey, president of the Ozark Trails association here last night and organized for the northern central route of the proposed Fort Sill and Fort Bliss military highway.

Judge J. P. Clayton, of Roswell, was made president of the northern or scenic route. The central route is to be organized at Lubbock Friday night. Col. Harvey went to Childress last night and will be in Floydada tonight and Lubbock Friday night.

COL. HARVEY IS PLEASED WITH ROAD INSPECTION

Seymour, Texas, Feb. 21.—When president W. H. Harvey, of the Ozark Trails association, was met by P. B. Bennett, secretary of the Young Men's Business League of Seymour, Texas, and secretary-treasurer and manager, Harvey was pleased with the route of the proposed military highway which will connect Fort Sill and Lawton and Fort Bliss at El Paso, they said enthusiastically highway meeting was held at Seymour, Texas.

Harvey said that the material for road building was excellent, and that if the people would put forth a determined effort, splendid road could be economically constructed. A great amount of road building was being done in practically all the counties along the route, and where sufficient finance had not been secured, the counties would vote bonds for road building purposes.

Mr. Bennett will return over the route in a few days and hold mass meetings, when complete organization will be perfected.

"By building this road, the towns will not only secure an enormous tourist business, but will furnish the national government with a highway by which, if necessary, it could easily and quickly transfer immense bodies of troops from one point to another," said Col. Harvey.

Col. Harvey said that the route, a million soldiers or more could be assembled on the Mexican border in less than a week's time.

COL. HARVEY MEETS ROAD BOOSTERS AT ROSWELL, N. M.

Roswell, N. M., Feb. 21.—W. H. (Colin) Harvey, president of the Ozark Trails association, was met here by promoters of the route from Lawton, Okla., to El Paso, which home people believe will be a splendid highway.

At the meeting were made by R. H. Kemp, J. E. Clayton, W. A. Johnson, J. H. Mullin and C. Chalmers. Col. Harvey went to Plainview, Tex., from here.

MUST WRITE ON THE MISTAKE

Rotary Speaker Says El Paso Wastes Energy Getting Transitory Things.

An economic discussion of waste, thrift, economy, home industry, capital and the like, under the general topic of "How to Keep Business Normal," was indulged in by Rotarians at their weekly luncheon Thursday noon at Hotel Sheldon, with such a degree of satisfaction that it was decided to continue the talks at the next meeting.

Declaring that El Paso has had no unity of purpose and has lent too much of her energy toward transitory benefits, Prof. John Fielding, Jr., of the school of mines, the speaker of the day, said the leaders in the life of the city should unite toward developing those things that will make a permanent city. Can'tonments and civic conveniences are all right, he said, "but if El Paso is to have a future, it must be based on the waste or sorrow over the waste of the past."

The copper industry, the cattle industry and trade with Mexico are the things that will build up El Paso and constitute what should be developed, he concluded.

PLEASE TO HOME INDUSTRY

Walter Kohlberg pleaded for the greater patronage of home industry. He said that the difference between money left at home as regards cigars made here and that which goes away in the case of cigars bought here, but made elsewhere. He and president Robert Krausner agreed that he keynote it, buy in El Paso and buy what is made in El Paso.

Stays Texas Politicians. J. S. Curran, who is to speak at Texas politicians, saying that business in Texas cannot be kept normal unless the legislature hampers corporate interests.

Anyone entering Texas sees a sign in the border, "Stop look and listen; look at what we did to the other fellow."

George H. LeBaron suggested that a stranger had told him that El Paso's residents were not doing as well as they should. He said that he thought that if owners of such property were induced to brush up, it would mean more work for contractors, painters and the like.

QUESTIONS ON LUXURY ORDER

The governor's order to limit boy no luxuries and save to the limit presents a dilemma, was the argument of R. Segall, who would like to have the matter explained more thoroughly. He wondered how, if everyone curtailed the buying of luxuries to the limit, business could go on. He would be wealth enough to float billion dollar government loans.

R. G. Perry said he had solved the problem on selfish standpoint. Get all the business you can and leave it to the other fellow to do likewise, he said.

MOUTHS COST BILLIONS

Flight of Dead Arizona Officers' Brothers Recalls His Exploits.

By RALPH E. HERRON.

The career of "Maricopa Slim," the name under which James G. Powers, the famous Southern Pacific railroad special agent at Maricopa, Ariz., was known among tempe, hoboes, year-men and the riffraff of the underworld from coast to coast, has been recalled vividly by the recent spectacular flight of his two brothers, Tom and John Powers, together with Tom J. Sisson, after the alleged murder of three Arizona peace officers in the picturesque Aravaipa canyon, north of Tucson.

"Maricopa Slim" was killed the morning of November 4, 1914, when the Al C. Barnes circus passed through the little desert junction, by an employee of the circus with whom he had an altercation, but in the fight the other man was fatally wounded, dying a few days afterward in the state penitentiary at Florence, Ariz., where he had been transferred.

The exploits which earned for "Maricopa Slim" the undying hatred of the citizens of the little desert town were performed while he was a railroad officer and deputy sheriff of Maricopa county. For about four years he remained at this station, which is the junction of the Phoenix branch of the Arizona Eastern railroad with the Salt River valley, through which passed thousands of vagrants during the year.

In these nomads the name of "Maricopa Slim" caused a curious feeling of mingled fear, awe and deep hatred. The average hobo beating his way through Arizona always told his plans to get past Maricopa without coming in contact with the officer, if possible, and, if successful, he always breathed a sigh of relief when the little unheated station was passed.

Wear Scars of Gun.

Tales of the alleged cruelty and brutality of the officer were carried over the country by scores of the vagrants who had not been so fortunate and who carried scars, which they exhibited with a sort of resentful pride, of the hands of the hobo charged that they had been beaten up with the butt of a sixshooter, claimed to be Slim's favorite manner of handling the lawless element who poached rides on freight trains.

All sorts of fantastic tales were current through the country of "Maricopa Slim's" methods. Some of the tales were true or not, they were religiously believed by the fraternity of the underworld, and were numerous threats to "get" the officer at some future time.

Railroad officials heard of the charges, and "Maricopa Slim" but they were wont to excuse any undue severity against hoboes by saying that anything that "Slim" was called for by the desperate nature of the rabble he had to deal with.

Many petitions were made to Gov. George W. P. Hunt to revoke "Slim's" commission as a deputy, but they were never successful. It was admitted that he aided officers all over the state in catching fugitives and was a valuable peace officer.

Contrasting Views of the Man.

Contrasting views of the character of the famous railroad detective might be gained by reading two different new accounts of the passing of the officer. In a story published in the Tucson Star the account began:

"Local and distant to the last, special officer James G. Powers, of the Southern Pacific company at Maricopa, better known as 'Maricopa Slim,' the most hated, most feared and most fearless of all western railroad police officers, was shot and fatally wounded by Patrick J. Meenan, an employee of the Al C. Barnes circus."

Quite different was the view expressed in a story of the affair in the Yuma Examiner, which is in the old fashioned western newspaper style, full of editorial opinions of an uncompromising nature concerning the dead officer:

"Gunman 'Maricopa Slim' dies with his mouth open. Got what he had coming to him for a number of years. He got nine, but the ninth got him," was the headline of the story.

Says Fighters Mortal Enemies.

In this account the fight between "Maricopa Slim" and the clown, called "Sideshow Black," was represented as a meeting of two men who were mortal enemies, the slayer of "Slim" was characterized as a "benefactor of mankind," and the account closed with the remarkable statement:

"Among the many unfortunate who have had occasion to meet with abuse from the mouth of 'Maricopa Slim' are a great many who are now free. They are a sign of relief at the killing of one, though they are not free from regret because of the fifth victim of a killer."

Not of Indian Blood.

The story that the Powers brothers, Tom and John, who are both under 30, were brothers of the famous Maricopa Slim, came from the Associated Press correspondent at Globe.

As the elder Powers was reported to be married to an Indian woman about 25 years ago and the two younger boys were half breeds, it is evident that the Powers family are of Indian blood. The elder Powers was 38 years of age at the time of his death.

low and listen to what we are going to do to you." He said that in 1905 Texas drove out the old line insurance companies and that the new companies to the number of 25 in 1905. By 1915, he said, half of these had failed, and of the long list of failures, he said, a dividend. Spain was the smelter, he said there was a man in the office recently seeking information about insurance to build a smelter base an increase in the smelter assessment from 1,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Washington's Mill Competitor.

F. R. Fieser, who has returned to his laundry business, his great competitor was the washwoman because his garments have replaced stiff collars and shirts to a great extent and the old idea prevails that soft garments should not be sent to the laundry.

George H. LeBaron suggested that a stranger had told him that El Paso's residents were not doing as well as they should. He said that he thought that if owners of such property were induced to brush up, it would mean more work for contractors, painters and the like.
